Brian Bianco has been Curtain Call's Education Director since 2006. He's a graduate of Southern Connecticut State University and the National Shakespeare Conservatory. Brian has worked professionally for companies such as Long Wharf Theatre, the Lamb's Theatre and Radio City Entertainment, has written and directed educational theatre productions that have toured the United States and has worked with several youth and school drama groups throughout Fairfield and New Haven counties. In addition, he is a former student of Curtain Call's programming. His curriculums combine the creative challenge of professional theatre with the sense of community and fun he himself experienced as a Curtain Call student!
